

Andrea Moltrasio

Mr Andrea Moltrasio is Vice-President of Confindustria (the Italian Confederation of Industries), responsible for Europe. He is CEO of Icro Coatings S.p.A., a medium-size chemical enterprise located in the Bergamo area (Lombardy, Italy) and part of one of the most dynamic and innovative Europe's chemical industry clusters. Mr Moltrasio is also active in the health sector, being Chairman and Managing Director of one of the oldest private hospitals in Italy, the Clinica Castelli S.p.A. In addition, he is in the Board of RCS MediaGroup (international multimedia publishing group), of UBI Banca (major Italian banking group), and President of BergamoScienza (international Science festival). He founded and coordinated (2004-2007) the "Club of 15" – a consortium that groups the 15 most industrialised provinces of Italy - and he also served as President of the Bergamo Province Industrial Association (2001-2005). Mr Moltrasio holds a degree in Chemical Engineering from Politecnico di Milano and a Master of Business Administration from Santa Clara University (CA,USA).

