

Libor Friedel

Graduated from Technical University Brno (1987), MBA degree from Sheffield Hallam University (2000). He was involved as a trainer and consultant for strategic management, performance management, benchmarking, intellectual capital etc. for more than 15 years. He is also trained as a cluster facilitator. Since March 2008 appointed as Director of the Centre of Applied Economic Research at the Faculty of Management and Economics, Tomas Bata University in Zlin, Czech Republic. In his work he focuses on intellectual capital, clusters, regional development, especially on performance and measurement issues etc. He also works on the concept of knowledge clusters. Libor is a member of several international societies (The Competitiveness Institute, Regional Studies Association...). He visited different countries (Sweden, USA, Japan, UK) for study visits. He is also co-author of the book on clusters recently (January 2009) published in the Czech Republic.